I am just about positive that Handel's Halleluia Chorus was playing in my head when I set foot in Tatte for the first time. I could finally stop searching! I had found my Holy Grail—the most lovely little bakery and café ever, where the café au lait tastes as though they've imported the water, and the warm brioche are served with fresh fruit preserves and butter. To sit with a paper, my coffee and bread and butter—I have no doubt that I could die here happy. But before I do that, I must spread the gospel of the deliciously and aesthetically perfect Tatte.
