there are many artisans around the world making beautiful, useful objects that brighten our lives. there are also (thank goodness) a few discerning shopkeepers displaying and selling these crafts. at ige i'm reminded why i write these books: to inform and sometimes remind people (and that includes santa) about these special places. helene is that rare combination of both shopkeeper and artisan, so it feels doubly good to shout out to the world that ige, the store and the woman are exceptional.
