the business card almost says it all. commissaire's is white, elegant, longer than most, and features perforated edges. it is essentially a claim ticket, and as such, each ticket bears a unique number boldly stamped in cardinal red. this testament to one-of-a-kind is the perfect statement for a shop that behaves like a gallery. when i visited, commissaires had devoted its space to designers from all over brooklyn. i didn't have enough time to shop (i could have spent hours there), but i've got my ticket, and you can bet that no. # 996 will be back.
