this bizarre and beautiful shop—part garden utensil store and part natural history museum—is one of my favorite off-beat places in paris. the upstairs showroom is what really gets me, with its menagerie of stuffed bears, tigers, and even a horse, all lovingly preserved and displayed. it's like a toy store for adults (“mommy, can i have the stuffed gazelle, pleeeeeeease?”). if you are a member of peta you might want to skip it. if not, deyrolle is the perfect urban safari.
