i love pretty paper things, including work accessories for my home office, patterned folders to organize, notepads to make lists. but what i love most of all is letterpressed papers. the ink sinking into the impression made on heavy stock, the whirring sound of the heavy press. lunalux is a place to observe the art of letterpress, with sunlight rushing in through the huge windows and a wall of presses. and with the craft comes commerce: here's a little shop where i can find all of my favorite papers and office supplies.
